Members of the Anytown School Board will meet with New York State Senator John Doe in the Senator's district office to discuss XXXX and XXX.

The meeting is part of the statewide "Home Field Advantage" initiative which aims to bring board members and lawmakers together in the home district at the end of the legislative Session to address the most pressing issues for school districts. Local school boards, through the "Be the Change for Kids" initiative have long advocated for the elimination of costly state mandates and have opposed shifting state costs onto school property taxpayers.

"Be the Change for Kids" was launched in January and has brought together a coalition of education partners to help school leaders optimize resources and embrace new methods of teaching and learning that will improve results.
